VoIP Supply Adds Microsoft® Response Point™ Phone Systems

VoIP Supply Continues to Expand Small Business VoIP Offerings with Addition of Response Point™

BUFFALO, N.Y. November 5, 2008—VoIP Supply, LLC (www.voipsupply.com), a division of Sayers Technology Holdings and a leading VoIP solutions provider, announced today the addition of the Microsoft® Response Point™ family of small business VoIP phone systems to its product catalog. Starting today, VoIP Supply will offer the complete line of Microsoft® Response Point™ small business VoIP phone systems from Microsoft's OEM partners, Aastra, D-Link and Quanta. The addition of the Response Point™ product lines will allow VoIP Supply to continue to exceed the expectations of what small businesses are looking for in a VoIP phone system.

"As VoIP continues to gain traction amongst small businesses, thanks to the cost savings and productivity enhancements associated with implementing the technology, there has been an increase in demand for simple, easy to use, VoIP phone systems," said Garrett Smith, Director of Marketing and Business Development at VoIP Supply. "With Response Point™, Microsoft® and their OEM partners, have done an outstanding job designing a small business VoIP phone system that meets the demands of today's small business. VoIP Supply is excited to be working with the entire Microsoft™ ecosystem to deliver these offerings to the small business marketplace."

"Many customers who are attracted to VoIP understand the power of IP Telephony, and recognize VoIP Supply as a leading e-tailer in this space," said Richard Sprague, senior director, Microsoft® Response
