VoIP Supply Joins Bandwidth.com's Channel Partner Program to Enable Small Business IP PBX systems with Leading SIP Trunking and Internet Solutions

Channel Program Allows Leading Internet Retailer of Small Business IP PBX Solutions to Provide Complete End-to-End Solutions for Voice and Data

BUFFALO, NY and CARY, NC (September 12th[KMC1], 2006) VoIP Supply, a leading Internet Retailer of Voice over IP Hardware including IP Phones, Telephone Adaptors, Media Gateways, and Small Business IP PBX solutions today announced that it has joined Bandwidth.com's channel partner program. Bandwidth.com is a complete business communications provider offering advanced internet, VoIP, network and wireless services to small and medium sized businesses in all 50 states. As a channel partner, VoIP Supply is now offering its Small Business IP PBX customers easy access to Bandwidth.com's advanced internet and VoIP services including its SIP Trunking product, call-center customer service and operational support.

"We chose to join Bandwidth.com's channel partner program because their offerings and customer-centric approach aligned perfectly with our small business IP PBX customer's needs," stated Garrett Smith, Director of Business Development at VoIP Supply. "As more small businesses consider the switch to IP PBX systems, Bandwidth.com's flexible and affordable offerings will allow these small businesses to realize greater cost savings, increased productivity, and painless user management."

"As we continue to focus on providing superior voice, data and network solutions to the small, medium and enterprise markets, we realize how vital our partners are to expanding our reach to businesses looking to capitalize on the benefits of VoIP," said Henry Kaestner, CEO of Bandwidth.com. "Our partnership with VoIP Supply is a great channel to offer our SIP Trunking product designed for those businesses looking to maximize their existing IP PBX systems and gain access to a complete telecom package able to save time and money from the moment it's implemented."

VoIP Supply is committed to providing superior IP PBX solutions to the small business sector. VoIP Supply offers small business IP PBX solutions from leading small business IP PBX providers such as Linksys, D-Link, SwitchVox, Fonality, and Epygi.
